Those who exalt themselves will be humbled

Jesus uses the setting of a meal to tell the guests a parable. He uses the simple example of going to a wedding and taking a seat up with the important guests, only to be publicly embarrassed by having to be asked to move to a table with the "also rans". Wouldn't it be better to sit with ordinary folk and then perhaps to have the honourable experience of being invited up to a seat of importance?

This is not just a piece of wise social courtesy. It is called a parable, which means this small story has something to say about the values of God's reign – the kin-dom. If right now you only associate with the rich and powerful imagine your shame in the time of basileia when you are shown up to be among the "least". The values of God's kin-dom are so different to the values of this world that if you want to be on the "top-table" in God's perspective, then you had better spend time now with the apparently worthless ones, the poor, the lame, the outsiders – the one who can give you no prestige in the eyes of this world.

The parable concludes by raising the question what reward do you want: the reward of this world or the blessings of God? If this world is all you are concerned with then offer hospitality to those who can repay you now. But if you want to enjoy the hospitality of God, associate with those closest to God's heart.

Social Justice Sunday - Signs of Hope on the Edge

One of the late Pope Francis's favourite phrases was "the culture of encounter", which is illustrated perfectly in today's readings. We are called to be attentive to those around us, especially those who suffer in any way. God has always been the friend and champion of those on the edges of society, and our challenge as Christians is to do likewise, no matter our discomfort or fear. In fact, the humble solidarity of Jesus and his followers is the how the gospel comes alive in our time.

On this Social Justice Sunday, we are encouraged to be pilgrims who find hope on the edges of society. Let us really encounter and listen to those who are living with homelessness and mental ill-health. As Pope Francis said in a homily on the 23rd of September, 2016, it is "not just seeing, but looking; not just hearing, but listening; not just passing people by, but stopping with them; not just saying 'what a shame, poor people!', but allowing yourself to be moved with compassion; "and then to draw near, to touch and to say: 'Do not weep' and to give at least a drop of life".

This is not only a personal call, but a challenge to society. The vision in Hebrews spurs us to urgent action to support and counteract homelessness and mental ill-health right now. We can be better and it is our responsibility as Christians to create a world of greater dignity and equality. The Social Justice Statement concludes: "Together with our homeless sisters and brothers, we are all pilgrims of hope. We are on a journey together towards the day when we will all live in happiness in the Father's house. There will be no more suffering, no more exclusion, and no more loneliness. When we challenge the superficiality and indifference which prevails in society and seek to serve those who are homeless and mentally ill with love and respect, we offer a powerful sign of hope that this day will come."
